gave a delightful Christmas tree entertainment and grand hop at their rooms on Madison street, near Second. There was a very large attendance of ladies and children during the even-ing, and the affair was one of the most enjoyable ever given by the club. The Chri-tmas tree was a wonderful piece of work, gotten up especially for the occasion by the father of the club, Mr. Joseph Specht. The tree was filled with wax tapers and Christman gifts. At its base were hun-dreds of figures, animals of all kinds, houses, mills with wheels run by water power, mechanical contrivances, and among the most charming was the stable at Bethlehem, with the Virgin and Child, the shepherds and flocks, the kings of the East and scores of other figures too numerous to mention. There were also 254 prizes, which were distributed among the ladies and children by tickets. Many of these were quite valuable, and among them were quite valuable, and among them were tadies' writing cases, toilet sets, silver castors, etc. An elegant supper was set for the gueste, and music said dancing followed, which was kept up to a late hour. President Louis Ecb, Manager Joseph W. Specht and Secretary Henry Peterson, with other officials and members, were everywhere, seeing that the guests we entertained royally. Mr. Peterson appeared in the dancing room cortumed as Sante Claus, and bore on his back a sack of oranges and other good things, which were esptured by the children. The Casino people can con-gratulate themselves upon scoring a grand success with their Christmas entertainment, which made so many hundreds of little folks happy and which pleased the o der folks as they never had been before pleased by the club during the holiday seasons.

AMUSEMENTS.

SHE SHEEK CHE WESTER TO THE WAS TRACE BONDON

Bijon Opera Company. Last night Miss Adalaide Randall and Opera Company sppeared at the Memphis Theater in The Bridal Trap, an adaptation from Audran's latest comic opera. The plot is amusing, somewhat absurd, and a li tle risky in surroundings and dialogue. In brief, the plot is the story of a French nobleman, who, from childhood, has been man, who, with a village madden in love with a village maiden, "Rosette," Miss Adelaide Randall. When he returns, after five years' ab sence, he desires to wed her, but this is prevented by his aunt, who, by a series of strange devices, gets her to marry a country bumpkin, "Grivolin," by giving her and him a flourishing inn at Orleans. The nobleman and the village girl, now "Mme. Grivolin," meet again, and it is developed that the marriage with "Grivolin" was a mock one, and they had ever occupied separate apartmen's at the inc, "The Crowing Hen." The count carries off "Rosetts" and marries her while the bumkin husband keeps the inn, which he loves much better than bis wife. The result is happiness all around, and, as Shakespeare says, "All is well that ends well." This plot is served up with pleasing music and pretty solo, duets, trios, quartettes and choruses. The company is not a strong one, either musically or dra-matically, but they succeed in amusing and creating a favorable impression. The audience enjoyed the presentation and was quite liberal in ap-plause. Adelaide Randall sings nicely, is a pleasing setres, and was fairly well supported. The cast was as follows: The Count Poutsland, the steward Martial ... Bel Agur. ancellote, notary clerk... Theodule, notary clerk... Francois, notary clerk... Edmund, notary clerk... Tonight The Mikado will be given
